Parent Teachers Hold January Meeting

The January meeting of the Statesboro P. T. A. was held Thursday, Jan. 8th, at 3 p. m. in the high school auditorium. The devotional was given by Mrs. B. L. Smith, and she closed her talk by a lovely vocal solo, "Today." Dr. Elizabeth Fletcher was guest speaker. Her talk was both inspirational and instructive, and was entitled, "Health on the Home Front."

She gave the parents thoughts to take home and put into practice. After the program the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Grady Attaway and many business items were discussed.

The recreation committee is arranging for open house each Friday night in the high school gym for the high school students. Mrs. Loy Waters, as chairman, and her committee are arranging these parties and they are already proving popular. The grammar school students are taken care of also. This committee has had a section of the pavement in front of the high school roped off certain afternoon so these children can skate. A committee that has been at work in earnest for the school is headed by Mrs. Gordon Franklin. She and her committee are trying to locate a moving picture machine which this school will own. Since locating a good machine, the committee reported that Byron Dyer has offered the use of his machine until the organization can own one; however, the president asked this committee to continue and investigate the possibility of blacking out the auditorium so we can begin showing pictures to the students.

Miss Elizabeth Lanier was chosen to select films from the state and other sources for use. It was voted to hold the February meeting at night so the mothers who are working and the fathers can attend.

Carr-Gomila

(From Thomaston Free Press)

Coming as a complete surprise to her many friends throughout Georgia, is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Eula A. Carr, daughter of Mrs. R. R. Carr, and the late Mr. Carr, of Statesboro, to J. H. Gomila, prominent mining executive of Atlanta and this city.

The impressive ring ceremony was read by the Rev. L. W. Blackwelder, at the St. George Episcopal church in Griffin on Tuesday, January 4th, at 6 p. m.

For her wedding the bride wore a handsome gown of navy blue with dainty white lingerie trim, her flowers were white gardenias and her accessories were navy. She wore a becoming off-the-face navy hat, with touches of white, and a veil. Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for an unannounced destination for a brief honeymoon, after which they will return to Thomaston.

Miss Carr has held a responsible position with the Thomaston Telephone Company for a number of years, and her many friends in this community are happy to know that her marriage will not take her away from Thomaston for the present.

Presbyterian Circles

Circle one of the Presbyterian Auxiliary was entertained Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. L. Thomas. An interesting program was presented by Mrs. E. J. Kennedy Sr., and the devotional was given by Mrs. Basil Hicks. Nine members were present. Circle two met with Mrs. W. H. Ellis hostess. Mrs. Roy Beaver was in charge of the program and Mrs. Fielding Russell gave the devotional. Nine members attended this meeting. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

PLACE FOR WOMEN FOLLOWING WAR

Problems To Be Discussed By Representatives From Local Women's Groups

What place women will need to take in the business world after the war, is a problem that the local chapter of the American Association of University Women are working on. Miss Marie Wood, president of the local chapter, asked two representatives of the various civic clubs and schools in the county and Statesboro to help work out a program to arrive at some basis for determining the position women would take in post war, and a meeting of this group was held last week.

The group expressed a belief that a study of the local business situation should first be made. They felt that this information be made available to the women of Statesboro and Bulloch county. It was thought wise to let these women express themselves as to what they would do about it.

A tentative plan for making a survey of the business situation was made. Plans were made at a meeting to hold a forum sometime in March at the high school and invite the public to participate in the forum after the facts had been presented.

Attending the meeting with Miss Wood were Miss Hester Newton, Miss Mamie Jo Jones, Miss Dorothy Brannen, Mrs. Irby Franklin, Mrs. Basil Hicks, Mrs. Miriam Hunter, Sam Straus, Wendell Burke and Byron Dyer.

WAC-War Bond Caravan To Tour Georgia Towns

State Hotel Men Assume Million-Dollar Quota In January-February Campaign

The United States Army will carry the appeal of America's four-billion-dollar Fourth War Loan drive to the people of Georgia through a statewide tour of a Wac-War Bond Caravan which will offer curb service in the purchase of Uncle Sam's securities and give the public a close-up view of a German Focke-Wulf fighter plane shot down in combat overseas.

Simultaneously, Georgia hotel men helped Georgia's campaign of war bonds by setting themselves the task of raising a million-dollar club of State's $125,000,000 quota, with Atlanta hoteliers setting the pace by pledging $250,000 worth of bonds as a starter.

Casualty Lists Grow

With the lists of Georgia boys wounded, missing or killed in action growing longer daily, General William Byrd, head of the Fourth Service Command, has assigned various units of his forces to man a huge motor trailer which will continue Wac recruiting with bonding in all Georgia communities that can be reached.

Radio Station WAGA, Atlanta, 550 Kilobaud, 12.5, will be the official station of the caravan. Civilian Defense and local War Bond leaders will write in making the Caravan's parade through the state colorful, entertaining and a powerful boost to war-bond-buying as a means of backing up our fighting forces.

Lon Sullivan

The Caravan will be equipped with music-making apparatus, a loud speaker system, a supply of bonds which will be issued to buyers on the spot, a squad of popular radio stars and a complement of snappy Wacs in uniform. The vanquished German fighter plane is transported on a separate trailer.

Dates for stopovers in Georgia communities and the line of march through the state will be announced in the press and over the air in WAGA's daily Georgia Bondwagon broadcast at 1 P. M. Central War-time. Major Lon Sullivan, State Director of Civilian Defense, will direct the tour.

Solve Stron, Secretary of the Georgia and Atlanta Hotel Men's Association, has been named campaign chief for the million-dollar hotel drive by Herbert M. Block of Macon, President of the state group, and Wilmer Davis, President of the Atlanta organization. An American bomber plane, to be named the "Georgia Bomber," will be one of the results of the drive.

Georgia Aroused

Meanwhile, throughout Georgia, rallies, parades, film premieres, displays of military equipment and other manner of events marked the opening of the campaign on Tuesday, January 18. It will continue through February 15 with an army of volunteer citizens striving to achieve the state's quota of $27,000,000 in W Bonds, $5,000,000 in P. G Bonds, $25,000,000 in other securities to be bought by individuals, plus $50,000,000 in other types of bonds to be purchased by corporations.

DAWSON VISITOR LUNCHEON GUEST

Ed Stephens talked about The Value of Peanuts As Money Crop in Georgia.

Peanut growers must use good sense in digging peanuts or pay the penalty of having a degraded, non-productive soil. Ed Stephens, president of the Dawson Cotton Oil Company, warned the 70 farmers and business men who met with the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

Mr. Stephens stated that if farmers would follow a good system, fertilize their peanuts each year and follow their peanuts with a winter cover crop, they could continue to dig peanuts for several years on the farm and not reduce the productivity.

Peanuts are the Southeast's most promising money crop, according to Mr. Stephens. He pointed out that twenty-five cents a bushel of peanuts receiving as much income from their peanuts as the entire 150 counties are getting from their cotton crop. The usefulness of the peanut as a human food has never been explored. There is a possibility of three cents worth of peanut supplying the body with as much food value as a seventy-five cent steak. If the protein and vitamins are preserved as they can and should be.

Research work needs to be done on the products now being made from peanuts, he thinks. The quality of the products can be improved on. He asked that peanut growers and business men help him to sell peanuts to the world as a food crop. The present plantings are about one-fourth what they will be when the people find out the real value of the peanuts.

Sometimes ago the Chamber of Commerce invited Ed Stephens to be the guest speaker at their annual farmers' day dinner. Mr. Stephens requested that these farmers be peanut growers. He did not pose as an authority on peanuts from a chemist's point of view, but from the grower and manufacturer's angle he did know.

Mr. Stephens was accompanied to Statesboro from Dawson Tuesday by Mr. and Mrs. Jennings, who also rendered pleasing musical numbers as a feature of the day's program. Mrs. Jennings is a sister of Mrs. Virgil Agan. Elder Agan introduced the speaker on the occasion.

"Stick-With-Us" presents a slightly shortened list this week, but there is no evil significance—it means that the group of delinquents is growing shorter also. On the first of January we omitted something more than a hundred who were in arrears. Immediately they began coming back to us; and still others came. "Can we get on your list?" Yes, today's list is not entirely of renewals—many of them are new subscribers.

FORUMS BE MADE REGULAR FEATURE

Semi-Monthly Programs To Held in College Auditorium And Will Be Open to Public

Arrangements to resume the semi-monthly community forums at Georgia Teachers College were made this week at a meeting held at the college. The next forum will be held in the college auditorium at 8 p. m., Thursday, February 4th.

Representatives of the college, STAR unit at the college attended the meeting. Capt. Ralph M. Lyon, classification officer of the STAR unit, acted as chairman.

The purpose of the meeting this week was to include not only the military personnel at the college and representatives of the school, but also all interested residents of the Statesboro community in the forum programs.

Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, college president, and Capt. Lyon invited representatives of the college students and civic organizations, as well as representatives of the college students and the STAR trainees, to attend the meeting. The group constituted itself as a planning committee for the forum and indicated various topics they felt would be of interest to the community and college groups.

The forums, it was decided, will be held on the first and third Thursdays in each month. Each of the programs is to start at 8 p. m. and is to be concluded at 9:30 p. m.

Proposed topics for the forum programs include: "Communism, Socialism and Fascism—Democracy"; "Economic Future of the South"; "Fundamentals of Democracy"; "Juvenile Delinquency"; "Is a Permanent Peace Possible?"; "Post War Education"; "Is the World Getting Better or Worse?"; "Just Punishment for Those Responsible for the War"; a musical; a dramatic entertainment; "Rural Recreation"; "Home 'Women's Place in the Post-War World'."

The committee invited suggestions for topics for discussion at these meetings. Any resident of the community is asked to mail suggestions to M/Sgt. Sam Miller, Box 284, Collegeboro. Suggestions will be considered by the planning committee, it was agreed.

GIVE OPPORTUNITY FOR NEW GROWERS

Farmers Who Desire To Begin Planting Tobacco Are Given Consideration

Farmers desiring new-grower allotments in tobacco must file their application with the county AAAA committee prior to February 1, Dorris R. Cason, chairman of the committee, announces.

However, new allotments cannot be established on farms unless the farm operator or the person growing the tobacco has experience in growing tobacco during the past five years, Mr. Cason explains. The average allotment for a new farm will be the acreage the county committee determines is fair and reasonable for the production of tobacco, crop rotation practice, the soil and other physical factors affecting the production of tobacco.

Mr. Cason urges those that have had experience in growing tobacco and desire an allotment be sure application is in the office by the red line. Only a small reserve will be available for the county committee to distribute to the new growers.

BULLOCH YOUNG SOLDIER IS INJURED IN ITALY

Mrs. W. E. Brunson of Register, has received the following message: "Regret to inform you your son, Pfc. William E. Brunson Jr., was slightly injured January 2 in action in Italy."

Georgia Theatre Will Again Sell War Bonds

Announcement is made that the Georgia Theatre will again take an all-out step in the promotion of the sale of War Bonds in the campaign now in progress. As last year, Mr. Macon plans to have a special showing one afternoon to be restricted to those who have purchased bonds from his show house. A chart of the entire seating capacity has been made, state numbered and each patron will be asked to make a reservation at the time of purchasing bonds, the admission to be free. Date for the showing will be announced later, and will probably be near the closing of the present bond selling campaign.

PLANNING GROUP HOLD CONFERENCE

At First Meeting Held Wednesday Evening Plans Are Made For Survey

At a meeting of the Bulloch county Post-War Planning Committee held last Wednesday evening plans were set in motion for a survey of the work already planned as well as the openings for permanent job for men and women in the armed services when the war is over.

what ONE ACRE can do

America's food and feed production goals for 1944 exceed all records. The question is being asked—"How many more acres must be put under the plow?" In the face of labor and machinery shortages, the question might better be—"How much more can be produced on every acre now being farmed?"

Experiment station results show that the intelligent use of potash, properly balanced with other essential plant foods, can greatly increase yield and quality. If you do not know just how much potash your soil needs to make every acre do its best, your official agricultural advisers will tell you.

Write us for free information and literature on the practical fertilization of your crops.

Brannen Writes Back From Beautiful Italy

Previously the Times has been privileged to present to its readers writings from a Statesboro youngster, Grover Brannen Jr., addressed to members of his family here and so carefully worded as to give delight to a wide circle of friends. Another such letter, received within the past few days, is submitted herewith, postmarked overseas January 6th.

APO 528, Dec. 22, 1943.

Dear Mother and Dad:

I suspect you have noticed a lapse in my correspondence, which has been attributable to our moving. We had expected to make this move for quite some time, but our stay in Africa proved to be almost interminable. Now, however, we are stationed in the traditionally sunny Italy at the epilogue to a Mediterranean sea saga.

The trip here was moderately pleasant because of new scenes, and despite the unpleasant physical aspects. We had no trouble from the enemy during the voyage, and the sea was conducive to smooth sailing except for one rough day and night during the which time I was intermittently sick.

However, this siege of seasickness was not at all comparable to that suffered from England to Africa. Although I was considerably nauseated, I made port with the ship in substantial ship-shape condition, and with mental vim sufficient to permit enjoyment of the pleasant sailing in sight of land along the coastal regions.

We disembarked at a very large port upon one night in encampment, and proceeded by convey to our present location. The trip here afforded only brief glimpses of towns and countryside. Stripped of its antiquated lore, historical romance and focused in the light of the present, we see a people in war-time penury with all its sequels of social and moral degradation; much of the towns in material decay abetted by Allied bombing, and many fields untenanted and untilled. Italy is low—very low.

Thus far most of the civilians have seemed amiable to us and our cause; but yet the average citizen seems easily impressionable as an adolescent child. However, I'm sure no ruthlessness of their erstwhile ally served to drive them to us with open arms; but it is rather the open, light-hearted, yet deeply sympathetic diplomacy exerted by the average American soldier. Of course candy, cigarettes and chewing gum win the little children in any land, and they make powerful allies. They, too, are the real losers of the war.

On the drive through we were met, in passing through the towns, with lined streets of the civilian spectators, some quietly contemplating and some cheering or exhibiting friendly gestures. As they must have seen the invader many times previously, I'm sure their affected feeling was based upon a weighing of experiences and not spontaneous or sullen as may have met the first intruders. For observance we have at present some few civilians working for us here at the encampment and for the most they are inescapably like the common man everywhere when allowed scope without the influence of continuing institutions. The older individuals seem anxious to please, and appear to work at anything, for anything, under the circumstances of the present state of affairs. Incidentally, I am learning a few words of Italian each day in my contacts with them.

After being at the present site a day or so, we received a large quantity of mail. I received a Christmas card and letter from Vernon, two letters from Robert, and a letter of yours dated November 22. I'm happy that you are up and about again, Mother. Robert's letters approximately coincided with yours in pertinent news. I hope you have heard from Charles by now. I received the package before leaving Africa. The cake was delicious, and was enjoyed by the other men as well. I am still eating the candy . . .

Statesboro Boys Romp On Glennville

On last Friday evening in the High School gym what was probably the best game of the season so far was played between Statesboro and Glennville High School teams.

The Glennville girls got off to a good start with a score at the end of the first half 12 to 6 in favor of Glennville. The Statesboro girls came up in the last half to a tie 14 to 14, at which time the game ended in a deafening roar of side-line boosters for both teams. Barnes was high score for Statesboro, with 12 points, and Long for Glennville, with 8 points.

The boys, as evenly matched in a nip-and-tuck game, had a score of 14 to 14 at the half. The fast-playing never lagged in interest at any point and at the end of the second half the game stood 27 to 23 in favor of the Statesboro five.

Simmons was high man for Statesboro with 9 points, and Anderson for Glennville with 8 points.

YEAR BOOK PICTURES MADE THURSDAY-FRIDAY

Mr. Gaspar, of Gaspar-Ware, photographers, of Atlanta, will be at the High School Thursday and Friday of this week to make the group and individual pictures for the Criterion, the school year book.

Individual and club pictures will be made Thursday and all outdoor pictures will be made Friday.

Class interruption will be minimized in every way possible for this work, and only two days will be used for this work.

Statesboro High is fortunate in being permitted a year book in wartime, and will try to make its usual high standard in the type of book put out.

BULLOCH TIMES AND STATESBORO NEWS

D. B. TURNER, Editor and Owner
SUBSCRIPTION $1.50 PER YEAR

Entered as second-class matter March 1, 1904, at Statesboro, Ga., under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

"Howdy, Neighbor!"

WHEN BASCOM ANTHONY awoke on a recent Sabbath morning in a New Land—that land for which he had been heading and of which he was so complacently sure as any mortal man could be—we can fancy that the first words of greeting he spoke were, "Howdy, neighbor!"

No person ever knew him for long and observed him as he passed to and fro among the people, but that he was heard and that those who heard him were his neighbors. In that respect he answered the question asked two thousand years ago as is related in the story concerning the man who had fallen in and had been robbed and left desolate and friendless. That man was pointed out by the Great Teacher as the synonym of neighbor—he was a man in want. But Bascom Anthony's conception was wider than that—every man he met was a neighbor—high, low or intermediate. A great man himself, he was modest; yet modest, he was not timid. There was a great enough to get him ill at ease; none so ignoble but that for whom he had a friendly word.

These memories of this great man are brought into expression by his sudden death in Tampa, Florida, where he was visiting last Sunday. Ill only three days, no word of his illness was received by his friends throughout this section until the news came the sorrowful, not too tragic—words that he had fallen in sleep.

Particularly in South Georgia, and among the members of the Methodist denomination with whom he labored for more than a half century, was the word of his passing given sorrow. Not, however, that his friendships were in any way limited to those of his own denomination, nor that his acquaintances were restricted to that section of Georgia to which he was nominally attached. He was more than a Methodist—he was an ambassador for his King.

His influence had no small bounds; his light has not gone out!

Going Bird Hunting

DAILY PAPERS of the present week have carried a front page story which has sort of contributed to our growing suspicion that we personally had been born a generation or two out of time.

The story told how modern flying machines had developed such speed and force that they flew around the swiftest birds, and their propellers created a vacuum which drew the birds into the bosom of the machine, plucked off the feathers and cooked the dressed bird in contact with the hot motor. We like the suggestion, and have resolved to buy one of these flying machines as soon as we can build up confidence in our ability to operate it.

That we were born out of season is a conviction that grew upon us in early young manhood when we used to borrow "Uncle Willie" Hall's brown pointers and go out after quail. Old Hamp knew his business, and he sort of crept here and there finding and flushing birds, and then sat back on his haunches and waited for us to bring them down. We nearly always missed our aim, else the birds flew so fast our shot (we used smokeless powder which we imagine lacked force even as it lacked noise) couldn't hit the spot we aimed at. Old Hamp manifested a disrespect for our lack of marksmanship at first patiently, and then he began to creep upon the birds hidden in the grass, jump into the flock and pin them down with his feet. Many is the bird he caught in his jaws, patiently trotted to our feet, laid the bird down and said, "Better luck next time, maybe."

Finally the old fellow began to run under the house and hide when he saw us coming to invite him to go hunting. Then we made an alliance with a negro shoemaker, Isaac Hooks, who had a fleet which ran the birds into the trees. Isaac shot them off the limbs, and we bought them and brought them home at cash rates. When Isaac died our birds fell off. Today hope springs up again. We're going to get an airplane, ride out in the woods, open the throttle and fly down every bird which dares to fly off the feathers and cook them right

Hi-Owl Is Member Scholastic Press Group

The Statesboro Hi-Owl has paid its state and national scholastic press association dues and retains its membership in these associations regardless of its temporary use of the Bulloch Times for the publication of the school news. Plans are being worked out for resuming the regular publication of the Hi-Owl in the fall term of school.

Bobby Joe Anderson, editor-in-chief of the Hi-Owl, and Bobby Smith, business manager, will have charge of the publication for the first semester of the fall term. Other staff members will have charge of the second semester, and new journalism students of the fall session will take over in the spring.

Delegates will be sent to the scholastic press association convention at the University of Georgia in April of this year. These delegates will be announced later.

Statesboro Wins Recent Double-Header

The Statesboro cage ball team, boys and girls, won both games in a double-header with the fast Brooklet team in the high school gym here Tuesday evening, Jan. 11.

The Statesboro girls nosed out the fast Brooklet team by a 16 to 13 margin, while the local boys won by a 22 to 11 victory.

The Statesboro girls got off to an early lead, which, through hard play, they held throughout the game with only a narrow lead.

Barnes was high score for Statesboro with 12 points, and Reid for Brooklet with 7 points.

At the half Statesboro boys were leading 10 to 4. At the end of the second half the score was 22 to 11 in favor of Statesboro.

Emerson Brown was high score for Statesboro with 8 points, and McElven for Brooklet with 5 points.

Personnel of Criterion Staff Being Completed

At a meeting of the senior class recently the staff for this year's yearbook was selected.

Those elected to the coveted places on the staff are as follows: Editor, R. H. Guyton; associate editors, Carolyn Bowen and Donald McDougald; art editors, Billy Holland and Bobby Holland; photo managers, Kenneth Smith and Marianne Wilson.

Whitehurst, circulation managers, Dorothy Flake and Miriam Key; photography, J. G. Altman, Hymie Evans, William Lambert and Richard Gullledge; business manager, Geo. Olliff; associate advertising managers, Mary Dell Shuman, Virginia Rastine, Billy Johnson and Mary Frances Murphy; faculty adviser, Miss Carmichael.

Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Deal entertained with a dinner Sunday. Covers were laid for Mrs. Melton Deal and daughter, Almarita; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Akins and sons and Mrs. Leroy Blackburn.

Mrs. Eugene Gay has been visiting Mrs. Carol Cannon and family while recuperating from an appendix operation.

Pvt. John Willie West, who has served in the Bermuda Islands for the past two years, returned Sunday for a visit with relatives here.

Then there is the over-enthusiastic young lover who told his best girl she was worth her weight in nylon.

PRIMITIVE BAPTIST
"Behold, I stand at the door, and knock; if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him and sup with him, and he with me." These words Jesus spoke to His Laodicean church in the first century. Many church memberships today need to consider and observe this Scripture and thus enter into the communion with Jesus, to which all His people are entitled.

Our service hours next Sunday are 11:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. A cordial welcome to all.

V. F. AGAN, Pastor.

then and there, and we'll have quail yet, if you don't watch out.

And that's what we have needed all the time. We were just a half century ahead of our time!

Mid-Term Exams Are Now In Progress

Mid-term exams are not a subject pleasant to anticipate, but like taxes and death, they seem to have to come. This week, however, the subject of mid-term has not carried the gloomy atmosphere so often noted in exam week. Students may be seen in little groups here and there in earnest discussion of important questions taken up in school work in past weeks and this group discussion has taken on the form of valuable review and evaluation of topics in various fields.

Listening in (slyly) on some of the knots of students, one would think memorized facts might be a case of life and death, but the far greater number are discussing liberally and rather intensively the "big things" studied in the fall session.

To sum up the whole situation as seems to the average student involved in the crime, mid-term at Statesboro High just now, is not so bad as it sounded.

Science Club Has Been Organized

At a meeting of the science classes last Tuesday a science club was organized. Students having a B average and above, constitute the membership of the club.

Billy Johnson was elected president; Ganelle Stockdale, vice-president; and Richard Gullledge, secretary.

The activity program for the spring semester is now being completed.

Whitehurst, circulation managers, Dorothy Flake and Miriam Key; photography, J. G. Altman, Hymie Evans, William Lambert and Richard Gullledge; business manager, Geo. Olliff; associate advertising managers, Mary Dell Shuman, Virginia Rastine, Billy Johnson and Mary Frances Murphy; faculty adviser, Miss Carmichael.

SMITH DISCUSSES SCHOOL'S FUTURE

Prospect for Immediate Future is Pleasing, Says Superintendent in Review

The beginning of this New Year 1944 invites a backward glance of inventory as well as a forward glance of planning for the Statesboro city school system on the part of its superintendent.

On Wednesday, September 15th, as I was offered this position, I learned of the resignation of my good friend John H. Morrison to accept a position with the state department of education. From the depth of my heart I appreciate the confidence and trust the board of education showed me in placing the responsibility for the development of Statesboro's children in my hands.

In a very grateful way I want to express my appreciation for the many friends who have personally expressed pleasure in my acceptance of this responsibility. This means a great deal to me and shall continue to be of definite assistance to each individual child in this splendid school.

A thorough check-up during the holidays put our physical equipment in tip-top condition as regards heating system, floors, ventilation facilities and grounds to insure the greatest possible safety and comfort of our children. With the able assistance of one of the finest corps of teachers in the state, we are sure to maintain your school at its highest peak of efficiency.

Besides the Statesboro Grammar and High Schools, the system includes the Statesboro High Industrial School which is also a plant to be proud of. The service rendered to the community by this school and its faculty is a very definite contribution to the welfare of Statesboro as a whole.

As you know, the city school system belongs to the people of Statesboro. We are here to serve you with the interest of your children, our future citizens at heart. Please feel free to call on us at any time for service in the growth and development of your child.

postmaster general,
Washington, D. C.
dear sir:

please have our rfd changed so's
mr. and mesdame sim chance and 2
other families can get their mail without having to walk about three-thirds of a mile for same. we have asked the rfd carrier to change it, but he won't pay no attention to use.

kindly write or foam our rfd man to turn off to his left at meckitrick's mill and circle around bert smith's cow pasture and come up the hill and leave mr. chance's male, and then turn to the right and cross the duble bridge at the simon tree and leave male there for the undersigned's cuzin, hansom moore and wife,
then he can revert back to his reglar rfd route.

mr. and mesdame chance feel like they deserve the route designated by their house. she inherited the farm from her diseased grandpaw.

mr. chance has run for the legislator two times and has a son in the italian campane, he receives a right smart of first class male, and he also takes the flat rock bugle, a weakly newspaper, but the editor got so mad at him last summer and stopped
it.

please take this request under advisement at once and if you think it will help us anny, we will have the e.p.a. and the w.p.b. and a few other fellars rite you in our behalf. we work for the two concerns named above nearly all of the time keeping up with our rashion points and trying to buy some gun shells to shoot rabbits and possums and squirrels and patridges, they are nearly ruining our crops ansoforth. please have the route changed at once as above stated. he won't have to go but 2 miles further and what does that mean to a ford? rite or foam.

Yours trullie,
Holsam moore, r.f.d.

CONFUSION A PLENTY

Washington, D. C.—I go to a United Presbyterian church every Sabbath morning. Every Sunday night and took a chance on getting away,

and lo and behold, the lady ticket agent had one sleeping place left.
And I snagged it.

The bell hops and the elevator hops
and the waitress hops and the doorman hop at the hotel got an inkling that I was on the verge of removing my weary carcass from thence, and they lined up with outstretched palms and said palms were not extended for the purpose of telling me goodbye: Each itching appearance expected and received a piece of the smallest folding money our Uncle Samuel is putting out at present. But I got off fairly light and had 2 dollars left. (They didn't wait till I fetched my bags down.)

We have had nothing but fairly warm weather up to this p. m., but the weather man pulled a fast one about noon today: he hiked the thermometer from 35 down to 10 by 8 p. m., in less than 7 hours. When the wind is blowing from the east at gale rates, street cars and buses go in droves instead of 3 to 5 minutes apart. I waited at "rt" and "lat" a/c for 30 minutes. Just as I was about to pass from flesh to an icicle, the car came and I found room therein to stand on one foot.

As it is so cold outside, several friends have insisted that I take a little smidge of something, but I said no: I am a prohibitionist. But I don't believe they had anything to offer: joy-fluid is about the scarest thing in Washington today, so I heard down-town yesterday from two fellows that were nearly drunk. I'll tell the folks cherio or ship-ahoy or something like that in a few minutes, and make a run for No. 29. See both of you later.

THE VICISSITUDES OF TRAVELING (Excerate Home)

As above I explained that I had bought a railroad ticket and a lower berth from Washington to my wife's place of residence in South Carolina.
When my traveling papers were handed to me, the pretty little brunettish ticket agent said, "You can board your car at 10 o'clock p. m."
The train doesn't leave till 11:35 p. m." I said, "That's mighty nice of Mr. Pullman. Ten o'clock is my late bedtime." She smiled so loud she dropped her cigarette out of her mouth.

Well, I got permission to go down to my train at exactly 11:05 p. m.
Sat in the crowded waiting room during this wait and saw nearly every kind of person covered by the last e.p.a. census. Soldiers and sailors and waves and wacs were considerably in the majority. Half of the colored folks were asleep and that meant
—50 per cent of the would-be passengers. Some of the young wives and mothers were having a sort of hard time keeping the children corralled. (A friend from my hotel had volunteered to tote my grip, wt. 150 lbs. and I took him at his word.)

Some fellow happened to say that the diner on the train I expected to take, or rather—the train that I expected to take me. "We'd better get lunch; we can't get breakfast till after 10:30 tomorrow morning." As I had had no supper, I took notice and went forth to buy me something.
The things I can eat and live with were not to be had. I asked for 2 bars of fudge—the lady said, "We ain't got no fudge" and handed me 2 bars of taffy. I then bought a package of peanut butter sandwiches.

I got sort of hungry the next morning about 11 o'clock; the soldiers were served first, which is as it should be. Our train was two hours late on account of the way I began to devour my taffy first. I didn't get far with it; it pulled both of my bridges out. I then took hold of the peanut butter stuff. Ninety-five per cent of it got stuck in the roof of my mouth, and the balance got behind my few teeth. I threw my breakfast away and took bacon and eggs at 11:45 and was happy to be fed even at that late hour.

Were You One?

Only about 10 of our old friends bade us goodbye—they neglected to line up with our Stick-With-Us list, and their names have been dropped because of arrearages. We greatly regret this separation from old friends.

Are You Going to Stick With Us by Paying Up?

Then look at the label bearing your name and expiration date. If you are in arrears, you are deliberately bidding us good-bye. Would you treat an old friend that way? Would you?

May We See You?
